

PSYCG 1514 : Research Methods and Design

This course is a survey of the methods used in empirical clinical research, program evaluation, and clinical outcomes studies. Students will learn both experimental and quasi-experimental designs. Strategies for research design, subject selection, and statistical analysis will also be examined.

College

Clinical Psychology Program

Credits 3.0