

PSYCG 1550 : Biological Bases of Behavior

This course examines the historical and current understandings of the physical/neurological underpinnings of human behavior. Recent advances in imaging techniques are examined as they relate to our understanding of the structure and function of the neurological substrate in human functioning.

College

Clinical Psychology Program

Credits 3.0