

Vision

The Midwestern University Speech-Language Pathology program works collaboratively in a health-oriented university to integrate academic teaching and diverse clinical experiences to develop effective clinicians through:

- Interprofessional practice
- Innovative technology experiences
- Clinical simulation opportunities
- Culturally and linguistically diverse clinical experiences
- Scholarly activity
- Individualized, intentional mentorship
- Comprehensive and dynamic instruction
- Clinical, academic, and community partnership