To be considered for admission to the M.P.H. degree program, stand-alone and dual degree applicants must submit their applications online through the Midwestern University direct application. Dual degrees are completed in conjunction with healthcare professional degrees such as Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine, Doctor of Veterinary Medicine, Doctor of Optometry, or Doctor of Dental Medicine professional degree programs. Applicants may apply to the M.P.H. program as a dual degree student by submitting an abbreviated online application through the Student Portal and releasing their Midwestern University application package to the M.P.H. program for admissions consideration. Stand-alone applicants will create an application and submit it through the application portal. No additional application fee is required.	08/05/2024
Admissions Midwestern University	The M.P.H. degree program uses a rolling admissions process in which completed applications are reviewed and decisions are made at regular intervals during the admissions cycle. The program dual-degree track begins in the Summer Quarter. The stand-alone track begins in the Summer and Fall Quarters. After receiving completed application packets, the Midwestern University Office of Admissions verifies the information provided to determine whether all prerequisites have been completed satisfactorily, or they will be completed prior to potential matriculation and also to verify the cumulative GPAs for all completed courses. Admission to the M.P.H. degree program is considered on a competitive basis for applicants submitting completed applications. To maximize their competitiveness within this rolling admission process, candidates are advised to submit their completed applications early in the admission cycle. The deadline for applications for the Summer Quarter is April 15 or the first business day thereafter. The deadline for applications for the Fall Quarter is August 15 or the first business day thereafter. The College of Graduate Studies, Master of Public Health Program
