

BMMSG 892 : Advanced Topics II

The Advanced Topics series is an opportunity for students to receive individualized or small group instruction on advanced topics in the biomedical sciences as well as topics related to broader aspects of biomedicine, such as public health, social aspects of clinical practice, and research in basic and applied sciences. Course formats may include lecture, discussion, laboratory, workshop or other forms.

Credits 1.0

-3